Subject: Comment on air traveler "profiling"

99 MAY -4 PH 3: 09

Hello,

I am writing to express my opposition to the proposed FAA regulation requiring air traveler profiling for all US carriers. I feel that this is not only a poor way to attack the problem of terrorism, it also requires Americans to give up too much of their privacy to do so. We do not give up our rights simply because we choose to step onto an airliner. While I understand the need for air safety, there must be a better way to accomplish this goal without the need to rely on "secret" methods to find criminals before they act.

Thank you,

Pete Capelli
